CHINESE VETERANS BLOCK ALL EFFORTS AT INVESTIGATION

Members of 19th Route Army Refuse to Permit Examination of Pakhoi Incident—Japan Assembles Fleet Off Coast—Rumor States Clash Has Already Taken Place

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15 (AP).—Defiant members of the old "19th Route" Army, valiant defenders of Shanghai four years ago, tonight were reported blocking both Japanese and Chinese attempts to investigate the mob killing of a Japanese national at Pakhoi.

While China's Foreign Minister and Japan's Ambassador conferred at Nanking on this and a preceding, similar incident, one native newspaper reported the veterans of the Shanghai siege already had clashed with a Japanese naval landing party.

Other sources termed this report "premature." A half-dozen Japanese warships stood off the troubled South China coast "to protect Japanese interests."

EXPRESS CONCERN

Shigeru Kawagoe, Japan's ambassador to China, indicated his country's concern over the incidents. He said they were regarded not as isolated or spontaneous outbreaks, but as the fruit of virulent anti-Japanese sentiment deliberately fomented throughout China.

This feeling, Kawagoe declared, "must be eradicated before an improvement in relations between the two nations is possible."

In a two-hour conversation with General Chang Chun, Chinese Foreign Minister, he declared Tokyo holds the National Chinese Government responsible for the death of two Japanese.

TWO SLAYINGS

There were two incidents. A riot of anti-Japanese demonstrators at Chengtu last month was followed within two weeks by the slaying of a Japanese drug store proprietor at Pakhoi, Kawagoe declared.

The ambassador said his first negotiations with Chang Chun developed into a lengthy review of Sino-Japanese relations, with no decision on ultimatum or concessions, nor any date for a second meeting.

MCGEE OFFERS CO-OPERATION

Vancouver Chief Magistrate Ready to Help Victoria Diamond Jubilee

Mayor O. G. McGee, M.P., and the City of Vancouver will co-operate to the fullest with Victoria in putting off its diamond jubilee celebration next year, which will coincide with the centennial celebrations, the Mainland City mayor declared last night at the Empress Hotel in an interview with newspapermen.

He said he would be "just as enthusiastic" over Victoria's anniversary as he was over the Vancouver jubilee, and he thought Vancouver Island could sponsor a celebration equally great.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

"We can't have a celebration every year so we will co-operate with Victoria in every way possible," Mayor McGee promised. Also, there was every reason to believe next Summer's tourist business would surpass this year's total.

Mayor McGee will leave Vancouver Monday for England. There, he said, he would work with Mayor David Leeming with a view to gaining control of bondholders to take a reduction in interest. At the same time, he plans to make arrangements regarding coronation ceremonies to be held in Vancouver.

Mayor McGee said Government officials yesterday on matters of the golden jubilee celebration and the Vancouver and District Sewerage and Drainage Board.

POLICE BOMBS DRIVE

PICKETS FROM SHEDS

SALINAS, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP).—Two police gas bomb barrages today drove pickets away from barricaded sheds where non-union workers began picketing today. The sheds had been left in the fields by an eleven-day strike of organized vegetable workers.

Police first gassed a crowd of 500 milling pickets who had thrown persons into lettuce-laden trucks, sprinkled carpet-tacks on the highway and hurled red pepper at some of the truck drivers.

Government Plans to Advertise Value of Canadian Fish

LUNenburg, N.S., Sept. 15 (AP).—Efforts to expand Canada's fish markets at home and abroad are being made by the Dominion Government, Hon. J. E. Michael, Fisheries Minister, said today in an address at the opening of the annual Nova Scotia Fisheries Exhibition.

The market at home, he said, was to be enlarged by a national five-month advertising programme to make Canadians aware of the various forms of fish available for their tables.

The Government also plans to set up a fund of $300,000 available for loans to needy fishermen.

Former Victorian Hurt as Chinese Fire on Gunboat

British Government Presents Demand to Cantonese Leaders for Punishment of Peasants—Three Injured by Shots, Including Captain F. Baylis, Whose Family Reside in City

HONGKONG, Sept. 15 (AP).—The British Government, through its Consul-General at Canton, tonight presented a demand to South China authorities that they punish Chinese peasants who recently fired on a British gunboat, wounding three persons.

Reports of the shooting were received here today. The peasants, presumably working in their rice fields, became infuriated when the gunboat—armed with machine guns—flooded over their crops.

WOUNDS ARE SLIGHT

Captain F. Baylis, a Briton; Miss Scarlett, an American missionary, and a Belgian engineer received slight wounds when the angry peasants loosed a ragged volley as the vessel passed.

SEATTLE, Sept. 15 (AP).—The steam whaler Westport of Seattle struck a reef and was wrecked; with no reported loss of life last night on Akutan Island, in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska, coast guard district headquarters here said tonight. While skirting the shore of Akutan, where a whaling station is situated, the ninety-five-foot steel vessel ran on Reef Right and apparently was damaged beyond repair.

SEES END OF "FLU" CASES

Professor Announces New Vaccine Being Made in Two Laboratories

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 15 (AP).—The end of the great "flu" epidemic was forecast today at the Harvard Tercentenary through a new influenza vaccine which, it was announced, is being quietly and independently developed in two of the world's foremost medical institutions.

The vaccine is made from living virus, the sub-microscopic "agent" which causes flu epidemics.

At Rockefeller Institute, New York City, the vaccine is already in human use with every evidence of effective prevention.

At the National Institute of Medical Research, Hampstead, England, the vaccine, made by a method slightly different from the American process, shows super-immunizing effects on animals susceptible to human flu.

REPORTS ON DISCOVERIES

The vaccine work and other flu discoveries were reported by Dr. William Smith, Professor of Public Health Administration at Harvard.

The vaccine at Rockefeller Institute is a culture of virus taken directly from human influenza patients. Flu is believed to attack through the nose. Vaccine is injected under the skin.

Teeth Marks In Pear Give Police Clue

MURRAYVILLE, B.C., Sept. 15 (AP).—A taste for pears led to the arrest of a high school boy here on a charge of setting fire to the barn of Joseph Postlethwaite, Milner, B.C.

Police Chief R. MacIn investigated the fire and found a partly eaten pear on the ground. A search of the Langley Prairie High School resulted in the finding of a boy whose front teeth corresponded with the marks on the pear.

Students Predict New Era From September 16—Change May Be Sudden or Gradual

BY GARDNER L. BRIDGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

TODAY is the day of days—the fateful September 16, 1936, A.D., that pyramidologists have waited for years. They know not what will happen, but they say it will be something terrific, maybe even cataclysmic, like the end of the world.

At 4 a.m. civilization crossed the threshold into the King's Chamber, for better or for worse.

But don't hold your breath. It may not happen all at once. It may come gradually. All the pyramidologists know is the world definitely and irrevocably entered on a new era this morning.

Victoria Bond Conversion Scheme of Charles S. Henley Passes With Vote of Five to Three—Mayor Leeming and Comptroller to Join Fiscal Agent on Journey to London

Hope to Secure Lower Rate Of Interest on Debentures

CHARLES S. Henley's scheme designed to bring about exchange of $12,656,222.21 worth of Victoria bonds for debentures bearing an interest rate of 4 per cent or lower was passed by the City Council last evening by a majority vote, and Mr. Henley was appointed fiscal agent for the city by-law. Holders of over 51 per cent of Victoria bonds will be interviewed in Toronto, Montreal, London and possibly New York in an endeavor to secure their consent to the refunding plan, felt necessary by the council for salvation of the city.

Those voting for adoption of the Henley scheme were Aldermen R. A. C. Dewar, T. W. Hawkins, S. H. Okell, Walter Loney and Dr. J. D. Hunter. Against were Aldermen James Adam, Archie Willis and Edward Williams. Alderman Andrew McGavin left the council chamber a few minutes before the vote was taken. Alderman McGavin was the only one voting against the by-law appointing Mr. Henley fiscal agent.

Mayor David Leeming and D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller and treasurer, will accompany Mr. Henley on the financial mission. Mayor Leeming plans to leave here on Friday to attend the Union of British Columbia Municipalities Convention at Vernon, and will be joined at Sicamous by Mr. Macdonald, who is to leave Victoria Monday afternoon.

STILL WAITING FOR ASSISTANCE

Relief Plane Unable to Reach Stranded Ocean Flyers—Ship Taking Aid

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 15 (AP).—Harry Richmond's hopes for dinner in New York faded out today after he and his wife, Mrs. Merrill, waited all day in vain at lonely Musgrave Harbor for arrival of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, mechanics and spare parts necessary to put their trans-Atlantic plane into the air again.

With the help of Musgrave fishermen, the two airmen were able to reclaim the Lady Peace from the bog in which it stood last night, after completing the first airplane round-trip crossing of the North Atlantic.

UNABLE TO REACH PLANE

But Captain Rickenbacker, flying to their assistance with a crew of pilots and mechanics, gasoline, a new propeller and a battery, had been unable to reach them. His plane, which hopped off from New York last night, reached Sydney, N.S., early today and cleared for Harbor Grace.

The veteran pilot scanned the virgin land of rock and timber as he flew across Newfoundland, arriving at Harbor Grace Airport, discussed with local airmen the possibility of landing his plane on a beach near the stranded New Yorkers.

TO GO BY SHIP

They followed the Newfoundland railway line and did not sight the plane, he said, but the nearest railway is fifty miles away from where the Merrill-Richmond flying team were forced to land in the northern corner of the island. Later, it was reported the relief party hoped to reach the stranded pair by ship.

EDWARD JURY IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Twenty-Two-Year-Old Motorcycleist Collides With Auto on "Don't Look Back" Road

Edward Jury, twenty-two, 841 Pandora Avenue, was seriously injured in a traffic accident at the intersection of Bay and Cook Streets at 7:48 o'clock last night. He is in Royal Jubilee Hospital and authorities reported his condition at midnight as critical.

According to information given to police by eye-witnesses, the young man was riding a motorcycle north on Cook Street and collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Jean R. Finch, of R.R. 3, Saanich, who was going east on Bay Street and had proceeded part way across Cook Street. Mrs. Finch was not injured, police said.

Jury was removed in the police ambulance to hospital and attended by Dr. A. D. Bechtel. The extent of his injuries was not immediately determined but it is believed he has a serious back injury and possible head injury.

Fine Classes Seen In Livestock and Poultry Displays

High Standard of Quality Maintained in Various Sections of Chickens, Rabbits, Goats, Sheep And Swine at Willows Exhibition.

ALTHOUGH falling short of entry lists for previous years in some departments, but generally conceded a better average in quality, the sections containing poultry, rabbits, sheep, goats and swine, are proving an interesting attraction for patrons of the seventy-fifth annual exhibition at the Willows this week.

The large poultry building houses chickens, pigeons and waterfowl. Many fine breeds are represented and provided close competition in the majority of cases.

Situated behind the Main Building is the rabbit display, where close to 200 of the furry animals, ranging from a few pounds in weight to the champion sixteen-and-a-half-pound Flemish giant, are quartered. The exhibit this year is described by those in charge as excellent.

Sixty-two entries are exhibited in the building occupied by the goats. This is a smaller collection than in previous fairs, but the type of animal shown is very high. Saenens form the bulk of the show.

The sheep exhibit, joining the cattle display, surpasses all previous exhibits for the quality of breed shown. The entry list, however, is composed entirely of Mainland entries, with the exception of one local stall for exhibition purposes only.

As in the sheep exhibit, that of the swine is declared to be a higher grade showing, although not boasting as many entries as last year.

Bulk of prize honors in the poultry show went to J. L. Lang, who secured five out of seven awards presented for the best cockerel, pullet, male, female and best utility bird. Lang was also victorious in the Rhode Island Red class and the division for the best English bird.

Sixty birds were shown by children in their section. The largest entry in the contest is the fancy class, consisting of about 170 birds, entered by J. Samart. His entry was unopposed and subsequently took all the honors.

A blonde cock pigeon, owned by R. Margeson, was selected as the best, while John Hunter, of South Wellington, had the best bantam in the show. T. Arnott, Saanich, took honors for the best waterfowl. N. E. Plaxton exhibited the best Mediterranean bird and Sam Jones, prize R.O.P. hen took top honors.

RABBIT SHOW

In the rabbit show the largest entries were noticed among the Angora, and white and black-Siberian breeds, several of which entries came from Cumberland and Wellington. Mrs. D. B. Langford exhibited the best Angora, while W. G. Bird took honors for the best Black Siberian rabbit. D. A. Dodge showed the best White Siberian, and the winner in the New Zealand white rabbit class was Mrs. J. A. Clark.

Saanen, Burken and Toggenburg breeds formed the principle showing in the goat department. E. W. Smart and his daughter, Miss Roslyn Smart, carried off both championship and grand championships in the Saanen and Nubian classes. Miss J. Harvey is, at present, leading in the goat show.

R. A. Coleman, of Ladner, made a clean sweep of the Berkshire section of the swine show, and McClellan Brothers, of Milner, showed the grand champion-Yorkshire boar. In addition to seven first and minor awards for reserve senior sow, Junior champion sow and reserve Junior champion sow. Honors for champion and grand champion male and female Tamworth swine went to H. M. Clark, of Brandon, Manitoba.

E. B. Hunter, of Winnipeg, took eight firsts in the Shropshire class of sheep, in addition to showing fifty-four head. The champion ram and champion ewe were included in his flock. The Canadian Pacific Railway farm, of Tilley, Alta., carried off first and second in the Hampshire and Suffolk classes. This farm is showing thirty-two head of sheep, in charge of Robert Allan. Eleven out of twelve firsts for Cheviots is the record established by Blacklock's entries from Matquon, including champion sheep for fawns and ewes. C. Eccles was the only exhibitor from the Island.

Jersey Heifer Is Born at Fair Here

The little Jersey heifer seems a bit surprised as she poses for a picture. She was only born late on Monday afternoon and was only a few hours old when The Colonist cameraman photographed her and her mother, Glamorgan Royal Majesty. Both mother and daughter are owned by Hugh Savage, Ladner. The young heifer has not yet received a name, but was the first new arrival at the seventy-fifth Provincial Exhibition.

Heavy Horses Drawing Large Crowds at Fair

Percherons, Clydesdales and Belgians Well Represented at Provincial Exhibition—Biggest Horses Ever in Canada on Display

Stately stallions and graceful mares, and a few colts, all in the heavy horse section, are drawing crowds daily to the Horse Show Building at the Provincial Exhibition. Nearly 125 heavy horses are on display, and judges agreed that some of the finest horse flesh ever to be shown here are stabled in the barns at the present time.

Two of the biggest horses ever to come into Canada, Harrel's Jupiter Independent, a stallion, and Harrel's Jupiter Darlene, a mare, from the Belgian string being shown by Luther Harrel, one of the largest breeders in the United States, are on display. These two horses weigh nearly 3200 pounds. Darlene tips the scales at about 2800 pounds and the stallion weighs about twenty pounds less.

Mr. Harrel's string includes fifteen head. Jupiter Independent was awarded the Belgian championship, while Harrel's Darlene, one of the two colts born at the fair here last year, was awarded the championship for mares.

PERCHERON SHOWING
D. F. Burge, Albany, Ore., with fourteen head of Percherons, has the largest number of that breed in the show. In this class are the champion two-year-old mare Anne Diplomat and the champion three-and-a-half-month-old filly Katherine D. Napoleon, a great Percheron, tipping the scales at well over a ton, was awarded first prize in his class.

Another large exhibit of Percherons is that of the Alberta Percheron Association, which is being presented under the supervision of Hardy E. Salter. The champion three-year-old stallion, Laget of Weno, is in this stable. This animal is owned by P. Cary, Forest Lawn, Alberta, and is a half-brother of the first Percheron to be sent to Scotland last fall. Mr. Salter brought his own mare, Starlight Lady. This mare won many prizes at other fairs, but was defeated at the Provincial Exhibition. A brood mare with foal at foot, Rosetta, won her class easily.

DISPLAYS CLYDESDALES
Clydesdales are being displayed by R. F. Munro, of Carstairs, Alta. He has twelve Clydes on display. Some of his animals are Keith of Dornum, Balmainsville, Effie of Foulwood, Fanny of Foulwood and Kirstein of Dornum.

George P. Jackson, of Saanich Arm, has a large entry of Clydesdales, and his entry gave a good account of themselves in the judging. Some of his heavy horses are Robbie Burns, Sandy Lake Donald, Sandy Lake Jasper, Rosella of West, Kilmayke and Valley Hill.

There are, too, a goodly number of agricultural horses, including those of Mr. Jackson, Alderman T. W. Hawkins, the Crystal Dairy, Vancouver, and James Turner, of Cadboro Bay.

High praise for the quality of horses on display was expressed by all the judges, and at times they found it difficult to hand down a decision.

Building of Road Along West Coast Again Considered

Chamber of Commerce to Confer With Government and Discuss Scheme of "Clarence Road"—Logging Begins at Port Renfrew

WITH increased logging operations planned for Port Renfrew, which will shortly employ approximately 400 men, J. O. Cameron stressed the need for immediate extension of the West Coast Road from Jordan River, at a meeting of Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday.

A special committee will be appointed to look into the matter and confer with the Provincial Government and Clarence Road, retired city businessman, who was reported to have a scheme whereby such a road could be paid for through revenue derived from logging interests along the route.

"If Victoria expects to keep on the map, the West Coast Road will have to be built," declared Mr. Cameron.

BUY IN VANCOUVER
At present Port Renfrew residents can purchase goods in Vancouver and have them set down at their port cheaper than they can purchase them in Victoria, as the Vancouver dealers absorb the shipping charges, he said.

A road to Port Renfrew would permit motor hauling, Mr. Cameron pointed out. It would also permit West Coast residents to pass through Victoria on their way to the Mainland. As it is now, they go direct by boat to Vancouver or travel to Alberni, down to Nanaimo and from there cross by ferry to Vancouver.

The two companies beginning operations at Port Renfrew are the Malahat Timber Company, which is building a sixteen-mile road into its holdings, and the Hemmingsen & Cameron Company. At the present time, a large shingle mill is in operation there also.

COST ABOUT $100,000
Some of the 400 men who will be working on the two new projects will be bringing their families. Their business would mean a great deal to the city, Mr. Cameron added. He estimated there was twenty-five years work for the timber companies, and in answer to a question, said the cost of extending the West Coast road would probably be around $100,000.

Efforts will be made to stop ships from emptying their oil tanks off Williams Head.

R. H. B. Ker reported two occurrences of this recently, causing the loss of a Victoria estate sale. The oil, believed to have been emptied by tramp freighters, washed ashore, marring the beachline and coating the rocks, the director explained.

Directors felt such a practice should be made illegal.

BRITISH EMPIRE FAIR
A letter from C. Willmot Madison, general manager of the Silver Association of Canada, outlining the objectives of a Western Canada Publicity Association, asking for a Victoria chamber to join, was referred to a special committee for consideration. Object of the association is to promote a British Empire exhibition in Western Canada in 1938 or 1939.

Efforts of the chamber had resulted in having the boundary of the sports fishing area at Menzies Bay and Duncan Bay extended farther west and preventing possible invasion into the waters by seine fishermen.

This was reported by Duncan MacBride, in referring to the interview of a Chamber of Commerce committee with Hon. J. E. McLeod, K.C., Minister of Fisheries, on his recent visit here. Mr. MacBride said the committee had and his department were aware of the value of sports fishing to the Island and were anxious to help it. He had explained, however, that the Cowichan Lake fish hatcheries had been closed in line with a general Dominion-wide policy as the results did not justify the expense.

POSTOFFICE CLOCK
Mr. MacBride said the minister went fully into the Sooke Harbor fish trap question. While non-

One of the highlights of the horse show will be the exhibition high jump by Skyline, under jumping horse from Alberta. This mount will be taken over the jump each night at the three horse shows, with the height being increased nightly.

MIDWAY ACTS
W. F. Browning, manager of the Browning Amusement Company, has arranged several features on the midway, including a free act. This act, which stars the Grace De Garro group in four stunts on the flying trapeze, and on aerial apparatus, will be presented at 8-9 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock at night.

Three experienced employees of the Central Films, Limited, have been added to the staff of guests at the film studio, which is proving to be one of the main attractions for fair patrons at the Willows this year.

Martin Kroeger, Michael Heppell and James Flaherty are the additional guides and will be in attendance through the day and evening to conduct personal tours of the studio and explain the various motion picture sets and the apparatus required.

CITY HAS NO MAYOR
In the meantime, Victoria is without a mayor or acting mayor. At the council meeting last evening, Alderman Archie Wills wanted to know when Alderman Brown would be available as acting mayor. His question was unanswered. He again pointed out that department heads informed him an acting mayor was

DR. HENRIETTA ANDERSON IS SPEAKER AT BURNS GROUP MEETING
Victoria Burns Club opened its Fall and Winter season with a rousing meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last night attended by between 300 and 400 members and guests. The proceedings opened with the singing of "Ye Banks and Braes," followed by a pipe selection by Pipe Major Donald Cameron, W.O. W. B. Grant, the club's new president, was in the chair.

The agenda of business was light and consisted mainly of reading of correspondence, the most important of which was a communication from Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, former Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, stating he would be in Victoria on October 13, and it is probable he will be the guest speaker at the club's October meeting. The president announced that Pipe Major Cameron was observing the twenty-fifth anniversary of his marriage, and that Mrs. R. B. McKim was also celebrating her birthday. Congratulations were extended to both members. A number of guests were introduced, among them Mrs. Lascelles Lucas, who is visiting here from London, England.

SCOTTISH DIALECT
The guest speaker was Dr. Henrietta Anderson, of the Normal School staff here. She spoke on "Exigencies of the Scottish Dialect," which proved an interesting and humorous discourse on the various phases of Scottish character. Being Scottish born, Dr. Anderson was well able to "translate" words and phrases which to the English-speaking world would be characterized as peculiarities of speech and many of which have no equivalent in the English language.

Dr. Anderson admitted Scottish dialect encompassed a very broad field that could not be wholly reviewed, or discussed in a short address. Therefore, she gave her audience considerable of the humorous side of the subject, which was very acceptable, judging from the laughter and generous applause.

Dr. Anderson, however, did not attempt to go into the history of the dialect, or its origin, but gave sufficient examples of the so-called peculiarities to establish the personality of the Scottish people as expressed in their every-day speech. The subject, the audience agreed, was as instructive as it was entertaining, and Dr. Anderson was accorded an enthusiastic vote of thanks at the conclusion.

The musical portion of the programme consisted of vocal solos by Miss Adrienne Sangster, Miss L. MacDonald, Nanaimo, and A. W. Trevett, accompanied by Miss Jessie Smith at the piano and violin solos by P. Davidson, accompanied by Mrs. Sneddon.

FAMILY RESIDES HERE
Captain Baylis' wife, two daughters, Evelyn and June, and son, Allan, reside at 2380 Musgrave Street, and have been residents of the city since 1925.

Captain Baylis is captain of Ss. Paillee, owned by the Sze Yat Company of Hongkong, which vessel plies the waters of the West River. He has long lived in the Orient, but came to Victoria in 1930 for two years after resigning his position as superintendent of the Ss. Home at Hongkong. In 1933 he joined the Sze Yat Company as master mariner.

Smillie said, for mice, fowls and swine, which catch human flu. The human beings vaccinated were not afterward exposed to flu. They were not, however, made ill by the vaccine and their blood revealed immunizing substances coming from the vaccination.

ENGLISH VACCINE
The English vaccine is made somewhat like smallpox vaccine, by inoculating animals with the flu virus and taking the vaccine from the animals. The workers use horses for this purpose.

The English product, Dr. Smillie said, is so potent it mitigates the effect of flu in mice even seventy-two hours after they have been infected with the disease.

The "epidemic influenza" for which the new vaccine is made, said Dr. Smillie, is a different disease from sporadic cases of flu.

Industrial Building At Exhibition Holds Attractive Displays

Local Manufacturers and Merchants Present Goods In Smart and Unique Designs—High Standard Is Maintained in All Exhibits

A MINIAURE industrial centre has been erected under the roof of the Industrial Building at the Willows Exhibition where attractive, picturesque and futuristically designed booths depict the interesting and varied products and merchandise to be found in the up-to-date equipped stores and factories of Victoria.

First to greet the eye on entering is the display of the Home Furniture Company. This is an attractively arranged setting, being divided into four sections. It presents, completely furnished, a bedroom, sitting-room and dining-room, while the fourth section is devoted to McClary ranges and refrigerators. The sitting-room is furnished with a three-piece Chesterfield suite and incidental pieces of furniture. The bedroom, containing a five-piece suite with a walnut double bed, is the last word in modern sleeping chambers. Nine pieces compose the dining-room ensemble. The table is of highly polished walnut with six leather-seated chairs. The attractive article of furniture is the attractively fashioned cocktail cabinet.

Y.W.C.A. AND HEALTH DEPT.

In the next booth is the showing of the Y.W.C.A., where literature pertaining to the association's activities is distributed. Adjacent to the Y.W.C.A. booth is that of the City Health Department, where literature and pamphlets dealing with the health of the community are given out.

An interesting and instructive display is featured by the British America Paint Company. Here may be seen a demonstration of the double art process for old floors and worn linoleums, using Bapco floor enamel and Satin-Glo enamel. Attractively finished walls are the results of use of Satin-Glo satin finish and De Luxe Kalsomine, as demonstrated by the attendant. The kalsomine may be applied in practically any color, is sanitary and does not rub off, while the Satin-Glo satin finish, besides being ob-

London's Women Police

The women's police force of new Scotland Yard in London, England, is an important part of the city's law enforcement. Here are shown Superintendent Peto, seated, head of the force, and Inspector Claydon at headquarters.

the I.O.D.E. Florence Nightingale, Miss Croft and Robert Burns McKinnon chapters being those represented.

Persons seeking refreshments, ice cream and light lunches are catered to by booths operated by Cameron's, the Royal Dairy, Old English Beverage Company, and a Copan, maker of French chewing candy.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM

The centre of the building is occupied by the master control booth of the public address system installed by H. D. Mainwaring.

The system consists of high power, high fidelity amplifiers with a total output of 150 watts. Time signals are given out half hourly, and records can be played from the control room, or radio programmes received and amplified for the entertainment of the fair patrons. The outfit was installed and is supervised by William Brakes, of Mainwaring & Company.

Latest models in Canadian, English and American bicycles are shown by Harris' Bicycle Store in its attractive exhibit.

In the display of the Kent Piano Company, Victoria, Limited, the 1937 models of Victor radio, featuring Victor's latest innovation, "Magic Voice," are prominently displayed.

Flanking these are the coming season's presentation of Stromberg-Carlson Rogers, Victor and Sparton radios. All these models are wired in order that a practical demonstration of their reception and tonal beauty may be given. In addition there shown the Easy Washer and the Western refrigerator.

The whole booth is proving a great attraction through the use of an animated model of the famous "His Master's Voice" dog, which is familiar to all, together with a special display which shows the operation of Victor's new "Magic Voice."

HEATING SERVICE

Situated in the centre row, facing the entrance to the building, is the exhibit of McDowell & Mann. Here the complete plumbing and heating service offered by the firm is stressed, with a heating engineer in attendance, ready to advise visitors as to their individual heating problems. Stoves, radiators, automatic oil burners, range oil burners, refrigerators and the latest in plumbing fixtures are on display.

The fine booth of McLennan, McFeely & Prior, Limited, holds a splendid display of the merchantise handled. Here are the latest models of the 1937 Freidaire, from the small domestic unit to those of larger size, the Westinghouse Electric washer featuring a new type of mechanism that gives fast speed and efficiency, the Westinghouse "Air Pilot" radio, in beautiful artistic models and the Westinghouse Dual-Automatic range.

Melogram health foods are tastefully exhibited in the next booth. Jim Bryant's Radio Electric shows an interesting display of radios and refrigerators. Cameron's Wood & Coal Company occupies the booth adjacent to their own lunch counter.

The House of Knowledge and hand-painted tapestries form interesting and instructive exhibits at the far end of the building. The Sinter Sewing Machine Company presents a very large display of electric and foot-worked sewing machines.

B. T. Leigh shows piece metal weather strips, an insured protection for doors and windows against winter drafts and summer heat. This booth is that of Salsman's, which shows many examples of clever photographic work. Leather goods, trunks, suitcases and valises constitute the exhibit of James McMainland.

CANADIAN COUTURIER

The Canadian Couturier exhibit took two first places and one special at the Vancouver Exhibition in the coat and dress products exhibit.

A Drager rescue helmet, similar to those used in the recent Moose River mine rescue, is on display and will be demonstrated to anyone interested.

Triton motor oil has a well-spaced booth for the demonstration of its products. Two prominent three-piece living-room suites are shown in the spacious layout of the Victoria Bed and Mattress Company. Mattresses, pure wool comforters and cushions make up the third section of this the third largest showing.

International Correspondence Schools, represented locally by John Wood, is located in a booth inside the entrance to the building.

Judges make good after-dinner speakers. They can't easily pronounce long sentences with conviction.

Evangelization Plan Discussed

Victoria Ministerial Association, at its first Fall meeting, at the Y.W.C.A. discussed the evangelization of Canadian life, a coast-to-coast movement started recently in Eastern Canada.

Dean Cecil S. Quimpton explained the movement was inter-denominational in character, and outlined the problems which it would consider, and the programme that has been arranged.

The campaign will last six weeks, commencing October 25, and during the first three days there will be intensive studying undertaken by ministers who will carry the work to their congregations.

DIRECTORS OF CLUB ELECTED

Gyros Choose Board for En-suing Year at Annual Meeting

W. W. McGregor, Neil Grant, Harry Savage, E. Revercomb and R. L. Chalioier were elected to the board of directors of the Victoria Gyro Club at its annual meeting held in the Empress Hotel Monday night. Previously, Angus W. McIntyre, Everett Taylor and Harold L. Butters had been elected president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, by acclamation.

The formal installation will be conducted by District Governor William C. Hudson at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday, September 30.

REVIEWS WORK

In his report as retiring president, Waldo Skilling, Jr., outlined the activities of the club during the past year. Nearly 1,600 hampers had been distributed through the Gyro Christmas Hamper Fund, he said.

Other community work carried out by the club was sketched by Mr. Skilling.

He also presented a report on the recent district convention of Gyro at Seattle. Various matters of policy were discussed in his report.

A detailed financial statement and account of activity was given by Mr. Butters. Forty-five speakers had been heard by the club in the past year, Mr. McIntyre, chairman of the speakers' committee, said.

Membership had increased according to quota, A. E. Osbornor stated in the membership committee's report.

OTHER REPORTS

Mr. Savage reported on entertainment while Mr. McGregor submitted the boys' work and attendance reports. Mr. Taylor presented the report of the sports committee and Mr. Chalioier the bridge report.

Leslie Osborne gave an account of the service club's council.

Thanks for their election were expressed by Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Taylor, while Governor Hudson also extended his thanks for being elected to his high post.

Previous to the business meeting, Archie McKinnon, track and field coach of the Canadian Olympic team, gave his impressions of the trip to Berlin.

MUNICIPALITY TO CONSIDER ZONING

Whole Question Will Be Investigated Thoroughly by Council In Oak Bay

The council of Oak Bay plans a general survey of the municipality for the purpose of ascertaining what is the best course to take with regard to zoning for the district in view of difficulties that are constantly arising.

At the council meeting yesterday a rough plan for a basis of a zoning division in Oak Bay was placed before the council and councillors, following the general plan suggested, and which would permit of various priced houses being erected in the various divisions.

In discussing the matter, the council felt that it was difficult to lay down absolute rules, owing to the varying sizes of lots and the varying styles of architecture.

COMMITTEE TO INSPECT

A suggestion that a committee of the council should make a preliminary survey of the district before the council is called upon to decide the matter was agreed upon.

The question of tenement houses will receive consideration when the council meets to consider the whole zoning project, some requests for zoning for apartments having been received. These were referred to the committee on the subject, which will deal with the larger question or the whole of the municipality.

J. R. CLEATOR AT CALGARY PARTY

Representing Island at Amalgamated Civil Servants Annual Convention

J. R. Cleator, secretary of the Victoria Local Council of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, is representing all Vancouver Island civil servants at the national convention of the organization, which opened yesterday at the Hotel Palmer in Calgary, and will continue until Friday.

Fifteen years ago the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada was formally organized at a convention held in Victoria and attended by delegates from some seven departments, for the purpose of protecting and advancing the interests of all Dominion civil servants.

B.C. REMAINS IN QUANDARY

Look to Ottawa for Lead In Relation to Winter Relief Proposals

While little is being said about it, and nothing at all officially, appointment of a Federal Unemployment Relief Commission and closure of relief camps in Canada have contributed but little as yet to any settlement of the whole problem of relief in British Columbia. Growing concern over the problem is manifest in provincial circles.

Currently on the books of the Province and its seventy-eight municipalities are 79,769 individuals, consisting of 16,246 heads of families, 12,322 single men (some in forestry and mining camps), and 45,201 dependents. Seasonal works will close shortly.

WORKS AND MONEY

A programme of works to absorb the employable men would run into millions of dollars, and the opening of relief camps without a work excuse would inevitably lead to repercussions and the return of some platform chickens to the home roost both at Ottawa and Victoria.

Federal policies of farm aid, while helpful in theory, are seen as of little significance in British Columbia, while railway work has been circumscribed at the best. Subsidizing men in industry is also frowned upon. Naturally, the provincial administration is looking to Ottawa for a lead in fact actual conditions that must soon be met. Meanwhile, Ottawa has been silent on the point.

Provincial submissions to the Federal relief commission will probably be that some work camps be reopened, on a work and wages basis, possibly in connection with highway projects. Such a solution, if chosen, would be startlingly similar to what has been done before. At present, however, the problem has been given no answer.

CALLS ON ALL TO STAND FIRM

Pope Warns Against Communism and Appeals for Crusade of Prayer

(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 15.—Age-weary Pope Pius summoned the world yesterday to stand firm against the threatening "programme of hate, subversion and destruction"—Communism.

Speaking to 500 refugees from Spain's civil war and to far corners of the earth by his own radio, the seventy-nine-year-old Holy Father appealed for a crusade of prayer against forces that menace "the very foundations of all order, all culture and all civilization."

Sadly, grieving that was in Spain he hurled "brother against brother," he beseeched all nations "to oppose these great evils" to prevent chaos "if, indeed, it is not already too late."

About him were the refugees, among them many priests garbed in clerical robes for the first time since they fled Spain in civilian clothes.

GIVEN SPECIAL PRAISE

To them the Holy Father addressed special praise. They were, he said, like the first Apostles found worthy to suffer.

But for the "persecutors" in Spain, Pope Pius told his audience, "we cannot and could not for one moment doubt as to what is left for us to do."

"To love them and love them with a special love born of mercy and compassion, to love them and since we can do nothing else, to pray for them."

The Pope did not once use the word "Communism" but Vatican sources said the major portion of his forty-minute address dealt with that subject.

SET DATE OF WINTER FAIR

Exhibition Will Be Held Week Of November 2—Ambitious Programme

Victoria's second Winter Fair will open November 2 at the Armories, the executive committee of the Tourist Trade Development Association has decided.

Authorization has been given T. H. Eslick, general secretary of the organization, to proceed with arrangements for the exhibition along the lines that proved so popular last year and attracted 22,500 visitors in four days.

The 1936 fair will be extended by two days and will be even more ambitious than a year ago.

PULL TAX ON CIGARETTES

BELLINGHAM, Sept. 15 (AP).—A 1-cent tax on all cigarettes sold in Bellingham was voted last night by the City Council to help balance the 1937 municipal budget.

CAR EXPLODES AFTER RUNNING INTO DITCH

CLOVERDALE, B.C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Surrey police today were searching for the driver of an automobile which crowded another machine, driven by J. Steves, of Barnston Island into a ditch on the old Yale Road, was later damaged by an explosion.

Steves' automobile overturned as it left the road. He and four passengers in the vehicle escaped with minor cuts.

The explosion occurred as Steves returned to the machine for a purse.

NEGLECT OF CONSTIPATION* IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Delicious Cereal Corrects This Condition in a Natural Way.

Immediate attention to constipation* is important for two reasons. It causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. It also tends to slow you down.

When elimination continues to be faulty over a period of time, your general resistance may be lowered. And a weakened body is less able to fight off the infections that abound in every crowded place.

The most common type of constipation* is that caused by insufficient "bulk" in meals. In Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, you have a delicious source of effective "bulk."

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass and gently cleanses the system. This tempting cereal also furnishes vitamin B and contains iron.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into tempting muffins, breads, etc. How much pleasanter to enjoy this natural laxative food instead of taking pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk"

MR. MACKENZIE KING AND DEFENCE

The elaborate defensive plans now in course of preparation by Great Britain should act as an incentive to the Empire as a whole to play its part in meeting the needs of a grave situation by the necessary precautions. It is possible, but not necessarily certain, that Mr. Mackenzie King, while he is in London, will learn something about the European situation that will change his opinion about maintaining Canada in the matter of national security as a "kept woman." Mr. King is obdurate and self-centred in his views, and hitherto has been an apostle of unguarded frontiers. That attitude is, of course, an anachronism in these latter days: it is not only the seriousness of the international preoccupations that has made it so, but also the development of aviation. If Canada is to march with the times and make herself a self-supporting unit of the Empire she must be aware of her responsibilities as well as her rights.

Mr. King will probably find at Geneva, where he is going to speak for Canada, that the strength of any voice there will be contingent on the armed might that lies behind it. In that case the prestige of this country's Prime Minister will be practically nil, except so far as he speaks as one of a delegation which has the might of Great Britain behind it. Indeed, whatever attention will be paid to Mr. King will be paid only because of the reflected glory of British puissance. That thought may not worry Mr. King, but it is a matter of concern to the people of the Dominion, who, so far as they are, are anxious to stand on their own legs while pulling their weight in the scheme of Empire.

There is one thing that Mr. King will learn, and that is what is being done about British defences. He will find out about the decision to transfer the filling factory from Woolwich to South Wales, Lancashire and Scotland. He, if he has the time, will see factories revived and re-equipped in Hereford and Nottingham. He will note the duplication of key plants in progress. He will learn of plans for emergency reserves of essential raw materials, of foodstuffs and of feeding stuffs. If he meets Sir Thomas Inskip that Minister will be able to tell him of how plans are being perfected for the diversion of shipping to less exposed ports in case of war, and of industrial expansion and reorganization as parts of the elements of a defence programme, and how all these arrangements are proceeding in an ordered way and at a promising speed. These things may or may not impress Mr. King, but they may consider that they have nothing to do with Canada. He may, on the other hand, reform his opinions, especially if he recalls the character of the reception which his Minister of National Defence received from the War Veterans at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, following that gentlemen's outburst against Lord Elbanc.

DISORDERS IN PALESTINE

British troops are moving into Palestine, and before long the force there will have reached more than 30,000, under Lieutenant-General J. G. Dill, who has been given supreme command to stamp out the Arab uprising. The challenge to the British mandate has been a prolonged one, and both Jews and British troops have suffered. It may not necessarily be characterized as a revolt against British rule; perhaps it is more of a demonstration to put an end to Jewish immigration and the sale of land to Jews. The fact is that the Arabs are suffering greatly because of the disorders there have engendered, particularly those engaged in the business sections of Jerusalem, Jaffa and Haifa, and many shops have been closed. In a measure the Jews are benefiting, because what the Arabs lose the Jews gain, but to offset this the latter have lost much wealth through the destruction of property. The British Government is determined to put an end to the revolt, which is a difficult one, because it is so much confined to guerrilla warfare, and the Arabs are well supplied with rifles and ammunition, though from what source appears to be unknown. Now that Great Britain is doubling her military force in the mandated territory, the disorders should soon be brought to an end.

HIGHWAYS DEATH TOLL

There ought to be some set of regulations that could be made applicable to all countries which would reduce the death toll on highways. It is probably, however, a matter of the racial outlook, for different nationalities have different ways of devising precautions, though none has reached anything approaching perfection in providing for traffic safety.

The United States, with 36,400 persons killed last year on the roads, has, in addition to other precautions, provided "scarce" methods. Those responsible for deaths, in some cases, are compelled to visit morgues and view the victims; films are screened of the aftermath of accidents; lurid pictures are installed at dangerous crossings. There is also the practice of throwing dummies in front of cars to determine how long a car takes to stop. Where a dummy is run over, the driver receives a communication stating that it might have been a man. These demonstrations are said to make an impression on the mentality of the neighboring republic. They are methods that would not be applied in other lands.

Germany, with a death toll of approximately 7,600 per annum, has special laws against "skywalkers." That country is increasing the fines in this respect. Cyclists are prohibited from riding two abreast in busy streets. France's average death toll is 4,737, and in that land all level crossings are to be abolished. Illuminated traffic signals are to be installed on the roads and the main roads are to be flood-lighted to make headlights unnecessary. In Italy, motor horns are being replaced with whistles and cat-calls in town areas. Where impatience is shown in driving, those guilty of it are subject to heavy fines. In Italy crooked roads are being straightened and resurfaced, and bad corners are being gradually cleared away. Pedestrians are required to cross roads at specified points, and there are special traffic police.

Obviously all countries are adopting more and more drastic measures to deal with traffic dangers, but still the toll of life goes on increasing. In the last analysis, what seems to be requisite in most places is greater governance of speed, more one-way traffic provisions, and particular care exercised over the distribution of licences. Of all these, the most important is measures to govern speed. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, where accidents are due to speed, there is no occasion whatever for the hurry which brings about death.

YOUTH'S OPPORTUNITIES

What a host of opportunities opens up to the youth of today as compared with a generation ago. There is an effort to show that youth's chances become less and less as the years go by, but that is all wrong, and no one who looks around and sees what is going on can subscribe to such a doctrine. It is what The Manchester Chronicle calls "obstinate pessimism with no basis on fact." There are new industries now that never existed before. There are airplanes, motor cars, radio, modern transport, all a part of a new and exciting world. There are, in fact, more people employed now than there ever were before, because there are more opportunities of employment and more people also to provide with the necessities and luxuries of life. Youth, therefore, has a new and enviable heritage, and every modern industry is one constantly expanding. Pre-war youth would have envied the young people of the present day, and most assuredly would have taken hold of its chances without any repining about there not being enough of them to go round. That youth, which rose so magnificently to the crisis of the Great War, had no pessimism in its creed.

When the late Sir Henry Lytton was attending St. Mark's College, Chelsea, as a boy of seventeen, he indulged in a stage-door courtship of Miss Louise Henri, and finally played truant from school to marry her secretly. After the honeymoon he returned to St. Mark's College, and when he was being biered for his truancy he cried out to the headmaster: "Stop it. Do you know what you are doing? You are thrashing a married man." This ended his school days, and soon afterwards he secured an engagement, along with his wife, in the chorus of the D'Oyly Carte touring company playing "Princess Ida." For a time they posed as brother and sister.

ORCHIDS

On an amber couch, near a star-dust shore,
A nymph of the night reclines,
She is frail as the kiss of a waning love,
For only the pale moon shines.

The nymph of the night on the amber couch
Has fashioned, with delicate grace,
A beautiful gift for our waking hours
Of the gods' rare mauve and lace.

And perfume, the pale moonbeams distill
Into petals cupped to hold—
And just the tiniest, tiniest pinch
From a casket of powdered gold.

The gift is borne on the wings of a dream
And left in some green bower
With the name that the nymph has given it—
The lavender orchid flower.

—Arthur Miles, in Chambers' Journal.

THOSE "PROSPERITY" CERTIFICATES

In addition, the certificates are technically illegal, as the power to issue currency is reserved to the Canadian Federal Government, which, however, has taken no action, as it considers that the failure of Mr. Aberhart's experiment will discredit his theories and policy. On the other hand, he is also attacked by the Social Crediters of the true-blue Douglas school, who consider Mr. Aberhart to be more of a dictator than a monetary reformer. —The Spectator, London.

Note and Comment

By Anon.

Near the outlet of Sproat Lake there stands a large black rock on which ten centuries ago a pioneer of the Indians depicted a message in sign language. They chiselled drawings of deer, salmon, bear, forests and running water into the rock. Today we do not know what they intended to convey. Might it not have been this:

"This is a good land. Deer and bear run in the forests. Salmon leap in the straits. Water flows at our feet both day and night. A brave man may hunt in the shadows of Old Kiltia, so that he walks upright in the spirit of his fathers, and remains a man."

For this is a good land, and surely we are pioneering still. On the frontier of the New World a country bounded by the Atlantic, Arctic and Pacific oceans, watered by the mighty rivers that flow East, North and West, partitioned from a settled and peaceful continent by 4,000 miles of unforgotten boundary line, Canada should be measured in assets rather than in liabilities.

What are the assets of British Columbia? First, its people; 700,000 of them selected from pioneering stock—the westward trekkers of a new land, and perhaps of a new age. Then, its resources: so much recited, so little understood. What are those resources?

From the lowering Rocky Mountains westward to the rolling waves of the broad Pacific Ocean, Nature has cast up range after range of hills, tip-tilting the layers of lead, zinc, copper, coal and a store of other metals and minerals exposed to view. This resource, mining, gave us at the pit of the slump, $28,000,000 in 1932, and made jobs for 10,000 men. Last year mining yielded $48,000,000, and 14,000 men were employed.

Along the sides of the valleys, climbing steeply up the hills, and covering at least half of our territory are the forests. They yield Douglas fir, cedar, spruce, balsam, western hemlock, cottonwood, and a large variety of other soft woods—one of the world's chief remaining stores. At the pit of the slump our forests yielded us $35,000,000, in 1932, and employed some 12,000 men. Last year this had grown to $52,000,000, and 17,000 men were engaged. Now it is much more.

From the Southern tip of Vancouver Island to the Gulf of Alaska, Nature has built for us a natural aquarium. One hundred miles broad and several hundred miles long, it shelters everything from whales to sardines, from oysters to shrimps, salmon, halibut, piliard, herring, oils and meals. Twenty-seven commercial varieties of fish are taken from this mammoth spawning ground; backed by countless fresh water streams and lakes. In 1932, the yield was $10,000,000, and 7,000 men were employed. Last year this had grown to $16,000,000, and 3,000 additional men had gone back to work.

Between the mountain ranges lie the valleys, rich arable lands flanking the sides of the mighty rivers, and spreading out over delta lands, through almost every range of climate. Fourteen different types of agriculture, on our own choice of 22,000,000 acres. Fruits, vegetables, hay, fodders, roots, honey, tobacco, challenge, horses, cattle, swine, sheep, poultry. It is a long list. In 1932 the harvest was $34,000,000, and nearly half of the population were employed. In 1933 this had grown to $43,000,000, with some 4,000 new families re-established on the land for a living.

These, only the primary industries, exclude many of manufactures and selling, yielded $109,000,000 in 1932, at the pit of the depression. By last year the returns had grown to $161,000,000, and some 14,000 men had gone back to work at their accustomed callings.

In less than a single century our resources, through work and faith, have given us some $3,750,000,000—a king's ransom. And still the trend is up.

Surely, this is a good land. Deer and bear run in the forests. Salmon leap in the straits. Water flows at our feet both night and day. But have we forgotten to walk in the spirit of our fathers? If we have, there is the path A trail-blazed by one hundred years of pioneering. In very truth, we are pioneering still!

CIVIC AID IS PROBLEM

Removal in Part of Social Service Charges Anticipated at This Session

While governmental declaration may not be vouchsafed until the session, plans for provincial aid to municipalities are unofficially expected to hinge upon removal of part of the social service charges now resting against civic governments.

If the decision should lie between a restoration of further money grants to the municipalities or a removal of some charges now borne by them, it is believed that the Government will choose the latter course.

Cash aid to B.C. municipal centres originated in 1921, with initial disbursements from the treasury in that year. The value of the grants under the head of another fluctuated, rising to a high peak of some $7,500,000 in 1931-32, but dropping off greatly in succeeding years.

TWO GRANTS REMAIN
No matter what the level of grants, municipalities accepted the assistance, and in time budgeted under the grant. Against the social service charges and part-municipal grants were eliminated, municipalities were reduced to two direct forms of aid, educational grants and motor vehicle licence charges. Against the motor vehicle disbursements have been charged off bills owing to the Province on social services accounts. Education grants were disbursed as follows:

Municipalities have contended in season and out that their grants should be restored to the 1931 level, in view of the degree of provincial service they are now compelled to carry out. Against this argument both the provincial and municipal administrations, and the one preceding it, found sustained objection.

CONSIDER PROBLEM
At the time a provincial sales tax was being talked of, it appeared likely that the municipalities would be cut in for a portion of the proceeds of such a tax. Now, however, the Government is believed to be seriously considering whether or not removal of social service charges, in part, might provide an immediate assistance to civic bodies than any fresh or direct cash aid.

Officially nothing has been announced, nor will it be until the session has been convened.

LAND PRODUCE IS HOUSED IN MAIN BUILDING

Flowers, Fruit and Vegetables Attracting Attention At Fair Here

KEEN COMPETITION IN SECTIONS REPORTED

A profusion of beautiful-colored blooms, luscious ripe fruit, and quantities of products of mother earth that prove the fertility and beauty of British Columbia are shown in the main building of the seventy-fifth annual provincial exhibition at the Willows.

Commercial displays, arranged in lavish settings, delight the eye of the visitor with their multi-colored blooms, and enhanced by the numerous collections of evergreens present a memorable picture. A record entry list of fruit. Wealthy and Gravenstein apples, to name the most popular variety, and rows of golden ears of corn, pumpkins, wheat, oats, barley, cucumber, tomatoes, beets, carrots, are tastefully arranged to emphasize the staple products of the soil. The district displays, the largest in the building, are deserving of the highest praise for their clever showing of fruits, vegetables and various commodities.

CITY PARKS DISPLAY

Begonia are the centre of interest in the City Parks display which is composed of flowers raised in the Beacon Hill nursery. Three rows of hanging baskets, containing red Bolivia and yellow Marguerite, running the length of the building, are also displays of the City Parks. The Oakland Nursery shows a picturesque exhibit of evergreens and shrubs, while R. M. Palmer, of Cobble Hill, has a display featuring gladioli and dahlias.

Practically all perennial flowers form the exhibit of C. Baldwin. They include Helianthus, Helenium, and new yellow Helianthus. This attractive display is set off by a background of golden rod. William Downes is in charge of the entomological exhibit of the Dominion Government which shows the many varieties of insect pests. Paratized flies, bred for the purpose of exterminating the carwig, are also shown, 6,000 of which have been released in Victoria and district this year.

CACTUS PLANTS

Cactus and succulent plants of over fifty varieties are displayed by A. Francis of Mount Tolmie. A beautiful Shirley Temple dahlia forms the centre of Brown's Nursery exhibit. The arrangement represents the rising sun, with a basket of Jane Cowl and Monmouth Champion dahlias bursting forth in a blaze of glory. Robert Adair and Brown's Perfection are new varieties of dahlias shown.

James Canadian Seeds, of Duncan, has a large exhibition of seeds, while Jack Elder shows Capitol and Illumination dahlias in addition to his other varieties.

Layrite Nurseries, Limited, exhibit a table of lovely rose-buds of various colors and sizes, evergreens, fruit, Auratum lilies, gladioli and many varieties of dahlia.

Other displays of gladioli are shown by G. E. Wardle of Sanich, and Arrowsmith & Son, also of Sanich. P. Wiper, of the Flower and Fern Shop, has a display of hardy and indoor ferns.

The Victoria Horticultural Association has placed first in the flower display for women's associations and service clubs. The Daughters of England exhibit was runner-up and the Women's Institute placed third.

DISPLAY OF HONEY

A large display of honey, and fruit preserved in honey, greets the visitor upon entering the building. R. J. Swain, in charge of the exhibit, pronounced it as a very good display of the Island product. John Wood, family known as "The Bee Man," gives a demonstration three times a day on how to handle bees safely, and enters a cage with the busy little workers, allowing them to swarm all over his arms and body.

Lunches, teas and suppers are served in the Princess Alexandra Lodge, Daughters of England, and are served in the balconies.

They held their fifteenth anniversary dinner in the store dining-room last night at which long-service medals, cash awards and extra vacations with pay were given to the employees for loyalty and faithful service to the company in past years.

Another Advance In Attendance At Fair Is Recorded

FOR the third successive day, attendance at the Provincial Fair has shown an increase over figures of last year. W. H. Davies, attendance director, announced last night. Yesterday there were 4,012 paid admissions, compared with 4,007 for the same day in 1935. On a ratio of five attending to one paid admission, it was estimated 20,060 persons were at the fair yesterday. Total paid attendance for the three days this year was reported to be 9,823.

LOYALISTS OUTLAWED

(Copyright, 1936, by Hearst News Agency)
BURGOES, Spain, Sept. 15.—After "outlawing" more than half the voters of Spain today, the insurgent junta here tonight warned the northern ports of Bilbao and Santander will be mined after 1 a.m. Thursday.

The insurgent decree outlawed all members of the People's Front, which won a sweeping election victory last February 18. Detailed figures for the election are not known, but it is asserted more than half the voters supported the People's Front parties.

All property owned by members of the People's Front will be confiscated, the decree said. Foreign observers pointed out the decree will necessarily remain inoperative in the sections of Spain held by the Government.

The official insurgent warnings to foreign shipping read: Navigators are warned that from 1 a.m. September 17 the ports of Bilbao and Santander will be encircled by mines. By this note the junta informs the entire world of its decision, so that none may plead ignorance in case of an accident which the junta would be the first to deplore.

A "strong, united Catholic Spain" is the objective of the insurgents, General Emilio Mola, northern insurgent commander, said in an interview today.

"A traditional monarchy contains the only real solution to problems of autonomy," he said.

SHORT OF ARMS

MADRID, Sept. 15.—Lack of arms, a staff officer of the Madrid forces admitted tonight, and the hardships of expected winter warfare are causing deep concern to defenders of the Socialist-Communist Government.

"We have all the men we want, but we need more arms," Major Carlos Contreras told the Associated Press.

"It is the other way about with the Fascists—they have many arms and not enough men."

The general staff, faced with the problem of equipping the army for the anticipated winter campaign, prevailed upon the ministry of war to reorganize completely the workers' legion now defending the Government.

The aperture ends, according to the pyramid's comic time-table, on October 10, 1918, the date of the Kaiser's abdication.

And now we come to the end of the ante-chamber, and enter into the king's chamber.

Danger of Extremes Taught in Ancient Philosophy of East

Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu, Chinese Scholar, Addresses Big Meeting of Women's Canadian Club on What Orient Can Offer Modern West

COMMENTATORS of the Western world have frequently, of late, conjectured the awful possibilities involved in the event of revolution breaking out on a wholesale scale in China.

Addressing a well-attended meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon, Dr. Kiang Kang-Hu, noted Chinese scholar, a member of the staff of McGill University, and who has been in British Columbia for some weeks in charge of the exhibition of Chinese art at the Vancouver Jubilee celebrations, predicted that the results of civil war in China would not be nearly so disastrous or cruel as in "some other countries," thanks to the ideal of "The Golden Mean" that had prevailed in China for many centuries.

This was one of the more concrete statements made in the course of his fascinating talk on "What the Ancient East Can Offer to the Modern West." The germ of the answer lay in the line he later described in the club's "autograph album": "All under heaven is one family, and the middle kingdom is a member of it." This famous teaching, dating back to the twelfth century, contained the doctrine of "The Golden Mean," which through the ages had saved China from the general materialism of the Occident, and also preserved it from exaggerated patriotism that is represented in jingoism or narrow nationalism, and from the radicalism represented in such movements as Communism and Fascism.

EXTREMES DANGEROUS
"Extremes are very dangerous," the Oriental scholar maintained in the course of expounding the ancient philosophy of the East. In politics extremes led on the one hand to Communism, on the other to Fascism, which were dangerous alike to the individual mind and to world-peace and order. The present troubles in Europe and Asia were the expressions of extremes of feeling among groups who would not work on the doctrine of compromise.

In reality, we human beings, the whole universe, exist by virtue of a balance being found between extremes," it was maintained.
China was an ancient nation; Canada was still young and modern. But Canada inherited old traditions from the Old Country, while China was in the course of rejuvenation, so that in many respects China was the more radical and Canada the more conservative. In this sense it was difficult to say which was "modern" and which "ancient" at the present time, although up to the time of the industrial revolution, the East and the West were not so different.

SPIRITUAL EXISTENCE
One of the most important things the ancient East had to give the modern West was a consciousness of a spiritual existence outside the material. Whether religious or not, in the orthodox sense, civilizations always tended to come to a sense of spiritual existence. In the Western world it had been expressed in Christianity; in the East it had been in Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism. The modern world seemed to emphasize the material side of life. Everyone was busy looking for material comfort and progress with emphasis on the importance of the materialistic, and a seeming insistence that life was determined by the material conditions only. Personally, he could not be an orthodox socialist, because he could not accept the view that materialism was of such significance.

It was true that the spiritual life was sometimes reflected in the material life. But on the other hand, the spiritual was the driving force used to make the material conform to the ideal. In this connection Dr. Kiang maintained that the great spiritual leaders of the world had always come from the East. Jesus who had given the West Christianity, had given a very important antidote to the materialism of the West. If the West would only realize its spiritual existence, its material life would also be better.

MODERN CHINA
Modern China was being re-modelled on the pattern of modern Western life. But with the leavening influence of the ancient teaching of "The Golden Mean," he thought the materialistic trend would be checked before it moved to the extreme.
China had never been great as a nation, but she had been great as a people, as a race. Dr. Kiang stated there was a definite difference between "nation" and "nationalism," the latter connoting a certain national egoism that was the opposite of the universalism or cosmopolitanism contained in the old Chinese ideal of "All under heaven being one family."

Dr. Kiang admitted that it had been a fault with the Chinese that they were too much attached to their own clan or family in the past. This had the merit that it led only to defensive, not offensive or aggressive, attitudes such as were found under the new nationalism. If everyone were taught, as under the Confucian philosophy, to love his fellow man, the result would not be to tend to world peace. But when emphasis was placed on mere love of one's nation, particularly if it were to the exclusion of other nations, narrow patriotism, with its attendant dangers, must result.

The new nationalist spirit was creeping into China. The next few decades might find China armed to the teeth. The speaker hinted the outcome, in such case of narrow nationalism or imperialism, was a nation of such numbers, and compared the present-day condition in the East with the China and Japan of fifty or sixty years ago, peaceable, its only aim being defensive, and to protect itself against outside dangers.

ANOTHER DIFFERENCE
Another great difference between the modern West and the ancient East was that the latter looked upon everything in terms of art, the appeal to feeling while the former read life in terms of social science, under a formula of facts appealing to the intellect.
Science had not been content to apply the rules and formulas to things but had tried to apply them to human relations as well. Dr. Kiang thought this was a mistake. They, of the ancient East, thought

Salt Spring Forms Rural School Area

SALTSPRING ISLAND, Sept. 14.—Five of eight rural school districts of Salt Spring Island have combined to form a rural high school area and have taken over management of the Ganges-Vesuvius High School, which will in future be known as the Salt Spring Island High School.
The five rural districts in the newly-formed area are Burgoyne, Divide, Ganges-Vesuvius and North Vesuvius.

The trustees, one from each district, are Mrs. G. E. Akerman, W. Crawford, E. Parsons, Gavin C. Mount and H. L. Bowden respectively.
Enrollment for the current year now stands at forty-three, which is a large number for the school. Every hand counts at least one teacher, and arrangements are being made to prepare another room and engage an assistant teacher.
It is hoped that all will be in readiness by next month.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

RESPONDING TO A TAKE-OUT DOUBLE.
When your partner has made a take-out double, no matter how weak your hand may be, you must show him your best suit. By your best suit I mean your longest suit, not your strongest. If you have a four-card major and a five-card minor, you should respond in the major suit unless the minor suit is headed by one-half an honor trick or more, and the major suit consists of four low cards. But a six-card minor is preferred to a four-card major.

With a stopper in the opponents' suit, at least one honor trick in the hand, and no major suit, take-out, one no trump may be bid.
At times you will find that your only four-card or longer suit is the suit in which your opponents have bid. In such cases, it becomes necessary for you to take out the double in a three-card suit, and the suit preferred is the lowest ranking three-card suit in your hand.

UNJUST CRITICISM
Dear Mr. Culbertson:
In a recent game I sat West, playing with a partner who usually is a conservative player. In fact, all four players usually play a conservative game. In making the five club bid I received a great deal of criticism from both North and South, which was entirely unjust. My partner, who was joined by that of my own partner. Their criticism was that I decidedly overbid my hand; that under the Culbertson system such a bid never should have been made.
Will you kindly check on the bidding and discuss this hand in one of your articles?

Thinking you in advance for your kind criticism and help, I am,
Yours very truly,

Knit Craft Tea Planned By Chapter

I.O.E. Resolution Chapter
I.O.E. met last evening at the home of the Misses Holmes, Falkland Road, when plans were made for a knit-craft tea, to be held at the Y.W.C.A. during the last week of October, when prizes will be awarded for hand-knitted costumes and dresses.
Plans were also discussed for a telephone bridge, to be held before the end of this month.
The usual donation was voted towards secondary education.

I.O.E. Activities

GANGES
A special meeting of the Ganges chapter was held recently at the home of Mrs. P. W. Faux, Ganges Inn. The regent, Mrs. Desmond Crofton, was in the chair and fifteen members present. The meeting was called after a considerable amount of correspondence between chapter and Mayor W. H. Watts, regarding assistance for the Institution of the Blind, for which he is honorary field secretary. Discussion took place regarding ways and means of raising funds to help the organization, several propositions being suggested by the members. It was finally decided to hold an entertainment, followed by a dance. Mrs. A. J. Smith was asked if she would take over the management of either producing a play or some form of variety performance for the benefit of the institution, and the following committee was elected to help: Mrs. Frank Crofton, Mrs. Cecil Springford, Mrs. J. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Buchanan, with the request of officers. It was stated that Mayor Watts had spent a few days on the island the past week and had visited the schools and asked the children to raise by individual effort, what they could to help the cause, even if it were only a few cents. It was also decided to distribute I.O.E. collection boxes in the public schools and ask the teachers to get the children interested in the work of the blind. Arrangements for the boxes were left in the hands of Mrs. H. Moorhouse, Mrs. Frank Crofton and Mrs. D. Simson. Two new members joined the chapter Mrs. W. Feux and Miss Margaret Ross.

It takes a lot of pluck for a woman to keep her eyebrows in shape.

St. Anne's Alumnae Welcomes President Of National Group

Mrs. Harry T. Roesler, of Toronto, Addresses Members of Local Academy on Aims of Federation—Scholarships Important Work

In a most able and charming way Mrs. Harry T. Roesler, of Toronto, president of the National Federation of Catholic Convent Alumnae, last evening told a group of St. Anne's Convent Alumnae members something about the history, aims and achievements of the organization which she is representing during her present cross-Canada tour.

Her address was given in connection with a reception by the local group of St. Anne's Academy, introduced by Miss Helen Redgrave, chapter of the National Federation of Convent Alumnae. Mrs. Roesler was welcomed by the Sister Superior and other Sisters of St. Anne, and by Miss Flora Hamilton Burns, president, and other members of the executive of St. Anne's Alumnae.

She explained that the purpose of the alumnae federation was to aid the alma maters of the various convents by cementing friendships, by promoting education, to support specified spiritual projects, and to maintain courses in religious education. Among the spiritual projects were mentioned the observance of Mary's Day (the day before Mother's Day) honoring the Mother of Mankind, and attendance at Requiem Mass for deceased members in November each year.

The scholarships were particularly important. The primary object of the federation was the advancement of Catholic education by providing scholarships to religious teachers who wished to secure higher qualifications. By awarding this type of scholarship, the federation would not only benefit the teacher, but the pupils who came under her care. Scholarships were given by colleges as well as private individuals, among those specially mentioned being the Mount St. Bernard, Antigonish, scholarship, giving full maintenance for a four-year course, the Holy Angels Convent, Sydney, N.S., scholarship, with the same advantages at Mount St. Bernard College, and the Mary Lou Roesler scholarship, donated by Mrs. Roesler in memory of her daughter.

Mrs. Roesler mentioned that Sister Mary Theodore, of St. Anne's, was the first Catholic sister in British Columbia, with whom she had had communication, and St. Anne's was the first convent in British Columbia to affiliate.

CENSOR FILMS

The association also did important work in censoring motion pictures. In referring to this, Mrs. Roesler recalled that the heads of various denominations in the United States had formed a Legion of Decency to work along the same lines. But the International Federation of Catholic Convent Alumnae was found to have a still more effective instrument of censorship, and had already done a great deal to improve the films. They had also taken a definite stand in the matter of Christmas celebration, the revival of the real meaning and spirit of Christmas. To this end they were trying to eradicate the meaningless type of Christmas card that omitted the idea of the Nativity.

Mrs. Roesler reminded members that the federation had a publication of its own, entitled The News Letter, which served the interests of fifty alumnae associations representing nineteen teaching communities. There were now twenty scholarships.

VISITS IN WEST

During her present tour, Mrs. Roesler visited St. Mary's Academy, Winnipeg, and Notre Dame de Sion Academy, Saskatoon. Later, she stated, she would visit convents at Calgary, Regina and Brandon. She visited the Maristines last year for the first time when attending the annual meeting of the national federation, which was founded five years ago. Three new units affiliated in Vancouver, the Little Flower Academy Alumnae, the Mother Seton Academy Alumnae, and one from New Westminster.

After the address last evening the gathering repaired to the library for refreshments. Mrs. Kenneth T. Hughes and Mrs. J. H. Moore presiding at the attractively appointed table with its centerpiece of gladioli and rose-colored candles in crystal scones. Miss Flora Hamilton Burns, president of the local alumnae, made a gracious address of welcome to the national president, who subsequently was presented with a corsage bouquet.

Local Club Has Report Of Delegate

At the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon, the president, Mrs. S. J. Willis, gave condensed reports of the annual meeting of the Regional Council of Canadian Clubs of British Columbia, held in Chilliwack on June 24 last; and of the twenty-first conference of the Association of Canadian Clubs, held in Vancouver on June 25 and 26.

In connection with the former, members were reminded that the head office of the British Columbia regional clubs would this year be Victoria, the new chairman of the council being W. T. Straith, of this city. The guest speaker at the annual meeting was Mr. Justice A. K. Dyar, Winnipeg, president last year of the Association of Canadian Clubs. Other officers were as follows: First vice-chairman, Mrs. Alfred Carmichael; second vice-chairman, Miss Margaret Rose, Vancouver; secretary-treasurer, R. Wootton, Victoria.

D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the C.P.R., was the new president of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and Dr. H. M. Toney, the chairman. Dr. Toney, Mrs. Willis stated, would probably address the Victoria Canadian Club some time during the current year. The next conference of the association will take place in Montreal in 1938.

As president of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria, Mrs. Willis was one of the delegates from this city to the two meetings held in June.

Angora Bunny Plays Role at Willows Fair

A four-and-a-half months' old Angora bunny was the central figure in a little scene enacted in the Women's Institute department of the Willows Fair last evening. Taking part in an Angora wool demonstration, little "Mr. Bunny" and to be supplied to the wool. Mrs. Bates, owner of the rabbit, did the clipping, securing about two and a half ounces, but still leaving sufficient wool on the little Angora to keep it warm during the approaching cold weather. The wool was then handed to Mrs. N. Findlay to be spun, and from her was passed on to Mrs. Gilling to be woven on the loom. An interested group of spectators, including several children, watched the various processes from first to last. The demonstration will be repeated again on Saturday evening.

On Friday afternoon, in the same section of the fair, there will be a spinning competition, with prizes for the winners. Hattie Cochrane will be the judge. About the same time there will be a quilting bee.

A school inspector was putting a class of youngsters through a Scripture lesson.
 "Now, Tommy Thomas," he said, "why did Joseph's brothers put him in the pit?"
 "Because he had a coat of many colors," promptly replied the boy.
 "Yes, and what has that to do with his being put in the pit?" continued the inspector.
 "Well," said the boy, "if Joseph had had a dress suit on they might have put him in the stalls."

SPANIARDS IN REAL DILEMMA

William C. Gibson Deals With European Reaction To Civil War

Spaniards, comprising 26,000,000 people spread over forty-nine provinces in one of the oldest civilizations of Europe, want neither Fascism nor Communism, but may have one or the other forced upon them, William C. Gibson, a medical student returned from Spain, told the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday in the Empress Hotel.

Touching only briefly on Spain, to show that Moderate Liberals in charge of the Government had been thrust aside in the civil war by a military bloc on the one side and a communist bloc on the other, Mr. Gibson continued most of his remarks to European reaction to the Spanish upset, as expressed in John B. Kennedy, K.I.R., 7:30 p.m.—George Olcott, self-styled "Greek Ambassador of Good Will," will present another of his "Radio Cries" reviews for Columbia, K.O.L. K.V.I. K.S.L.

Germany, he said, had spent $3,000,000,000 in three years in re-armaments and had not abandoned hope of world domination, as expressed in Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf." Concluding, Mr. Gibson declared he was glad to be back in Canada after seeing civil war abroad.

G. Hamilton Harman, speaking on behalf of the showing of Titania's Palace at the Hudson's Bay store between September 18 and October 14, said Rotarians were sponsoring Sir Neville Wilkinson's magnificent exhibit, with proceeds to go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Kiwanian William Dreaper was congratulated upon passing another milestone, his birthday, and guests were introduced from Toronto, Edmonton and Vancouver. Dr. J. Ewart Gies moved a vote of thanks to the guest speaker.

Speaking of sports events, committee chairman told of a Kiwanis golf fixture on Wednesday, September 23, and of a bowling tournament at the Olympic alleys at 7 p.m. on Friday of this week.

MAY BUILD SMALL SAWMILL IN CITY

Lands Committee of Council Conducts Negotiations Over Store Street Property

Negotiations between the City Council land committee, headed by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, and unnamed interests may lead to erection of a small sawmill employing between ten and twenty men near the old C.P.S. property.

The council has authorized the lands committee to lease two lots on the west side of Store Street, between Douglas Street and Battery Street, for a term of five years, for $60 a month on a five-year lease. The lease is conditional on erection of a sawmill, and may carry an option allowing it to be renewed for a further five years at a rental to be agreed upon.

A lot on the west side of Douglas Street, between Burnside Road and Francis Avenue, has been sold to Mrs. E. F. Reid by the city for $300. The city's interest in a vacant lot on Douglas Street, between Battery Street and Dallas Road, has been sold to George H. Gowan, of Vancouver, for $400.35 and accrued interest.

Rival Clubs Have Little Chance of Catching Giants

Terry's Crew Appears to Have National League Pennant Stowed Away as Cards and Cubs Must Engage in Six-Game Series Yet—New York Yankees After New League Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Although there are still nearly two weeks to go in this dizzy National League race, the Giants have won only three of their last 13 games and the remainder of the schedule, the task of catching the Cards seems almost an impossibility.

Of course, anything can happen—as it has been since mid-season—but the Giants, with a four and one-half game lead over the second-place Cardinals and with thirteen games to play to the gas house gang's twelve, appear safe.

As things stand now—with the entire National League programme rained out today—if the Giants play only a shade over 500 ball, winning seven and losing six, the Cardinals could have to take eleven of their twelve starts.

But, since six of those twelve remaining games for St. Louis are with the always dangerous Chicago Cubs, and inasmuch as the Cards' pitching is riddled, except for Dizzy Dean, the task appears far too great even for as tough an outfit as the Cardinals.

The Giants, after getting by two more games with the Pirates, meet only second division clubs the rest of the way.

Both the Cubs and the Pirates still have a mathematical hope to come through, but it amounts to about one chance in 10,000, with the Cubs six games behind and eleven to play, and the Bucs nine c—the pace and the same number to go.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees, seeking to create an all-time American League record for a pennant-winner's lead over the rest of the pack, shot eighteen and one-half games in front again today by clubbing the White Sox 7 to 1.

The Yankees won the 1927 American League flag with a lead of nineteen games over Philadelphia. The victory stopped the seven-game winning streak of the Sox, but did not drop them from second place in the league.

Monte Pearson chalked up his nineteenth victory of the year against six defeats, but he was not around when the game ended. Centre fielder Larry Rosenfield of the Sox, beating out a hit in the eighth inning, with Pearson covering first, stepped on Pearson's ankle while crossing the bag and injured him seriously enough to require his leaving the game.

Johnny Broaca finished the pitching job for the Yankees, and between him and Pearson allowed the Sox only half a dozen hits. The Yanks walked three Sox pitchers for fourteen hits, with Joe Di Maggio, Red Rolfe and George Selkirk getting three apiece to set the pace.

Stiggar Cain, the Sox's star pitcher who was belted out during a three-run game-clinching rally by the Yanks—in the fourth, was charged with the defeat. R. H. E. New York, 6-0; Boston, 0-6.

Batteries: Pearson, Bronza and Dickey; Cain, Chelini, Dietrich and Sewell.

Tronky Hits Couple
CLEVELAND, Sept. 15 (AP)—With the aid of homers number thirty-nine and forty by Hal Tronky, and an assortment of thirteen other base hits by his mates, Johnny Allen chalked up his twentieth pitching victory of the year today, haling the Indians to a 13 to 2 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Batteries: Tronky, Bronza and Dickey; Allen, Chelini, Dietrich and Sewell.

Rowe Beats Mackinn
DETROIT, Sept. 15 (AP)—School-boy Rowe chalked up his eighteenth pitching victory today as the Tigers came from behind with a six-run surge in the fourth inning to clinch an 8 to 5 decision over the Athletics.

Although touched for eleven hits, the same number his Detroit mates collected, Rowe was only in danger in the first, when Bob Johnson's twenty-third homer featured a two-run attack. Pinky Higgins hits his thirteenth four-bagger in the fourth.

Batteries: Rowe and Rubeizer.

Five C's to Play
Victoria Side in Burger Cup Mix

WITH the Burger Cup almost within their grasp, five C's cricketers will meet the Victoria eleven this afternoon at Beacon Hill Park. Play will commence at 2:15 o'clock. The churchmen have two matches with Victoria, and will retain their chances of winning the silverware even if they are defeated in today's game. The five C's team will be as follows: Shrimpton, Whitehead, Oakes, Attwell, Passmore, Pithkenley, Nixon, Morton, Anders, Baker and G. Payne.

SOMERVILLE, SMITH AND THOMSON LOSE IN NATIONAL GOLF

Famous Canadian, American and British Stars Fall By Wayside at Garden City Course as Second Round Contests Completed—Veterans Advance—Goodman, Campbell Win

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—A tidal wave of upsets, brought on by dripping skies and the natural hazards of this ancient golfing country, swept away the United States amateur champion today and left in its wake the wreckage of a flock of title hopes. Russ "Scotty" Souter, winner of the 1935 U.S. Open, was one of the victims. He was out of the running after the first round, when he lost to a Canadian, Joe Thompson, by a score of 3 and 2.

Chief survivor among the five men from the British Isles left in the tournament was Jack McLean, the Scottish star, who won from a London golf writer, Henry Longhurst, 5 and 4. The other successful invaders from overseas included youthful John Langley, Alec Hill, Cecil Ewing and P. B. Lucas.

David L. Davis, bespectacled collegian of Austin, Texas, caught Somerville when none of his shots were under control and he was whipped, 3 and 2. Somerville's 44 was seven big strokes over par.

Thompson, swarthy mite from Hamilton, was swinging sweetly as he ousted Harold Leibold, Madras, Ohio, by 2 and 2. Joe matched par 37 going out to take a three-hole lead.

Cameron, Ottawa-born referee in the National Golf League, had his shot on line as he dropped O'Hara Watts, of Dallas, but the Canadian veteran was forced to shoot steel nerves before winning on the nineteenth hole.

TAYLOR DOWNS EMERY
Taylor, long a top flight figure in Toronto, was off his game, but luckily his opponent, Walter Emery, of Oklahoma City, was even worse. Emery had a medal round of 84, Taylor approximately 81 gave him a 2 up win.

The succession of firm reversals began with the elimination of Hector Thompson, Scotland's holder of the British amateur crown, by Frank Kowal, former Colgate University golf captain, by 4 and 2. It reached dramatic heights with the downfall of Somerville, and later on the Texas star, Reynolds Smith, before the shapshooting comeback of Bill Holt, Jr., twenty-four-year-old, Syracuse automobile salesman.

Holt dealt the crusher to the diminutive Smith with a great birdie on the seventeenth hole, only a nibble shot from the par line, space where the Syracuse youth's specially built trailer furnishes the tournament home for himself and his Canadian pal, Joe Thompson.

Holt, Jr., twenty-four-year-old, Syracuse automobile salesman.

Ada Mackenzie in Smart Victory in Canadian Tourney

Defending Golf Champion Plays Par Game in Gaining Easy Triumph—Vancouver Woman Survives—Marian McDougall Also Wins

By SYDNEY GRUBIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.
DIXIE, Que., Sept. 15 (P)—Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, gave notice today to any in the way of her sixth Canadian Women's Open golf championship she is prepared to defend the title with all the skill acquired as one of the continent's best for nearly a score of years.

The veteran linkswoman scored a 5 and 4 victory today over Margaret Symington, of Montreal, in the final round of match play that narrowed thirty-two qualifiers to the "round of sixteen," eliminated three provincial champions and reduced the United States challenge from six to four.

It was Miss Mackenzie's first display of old-time form since she went out over Royal Montreal in practice last Friday, and it bracketed her with Margery Kirkham, of Montreal, the medalist, and Marian Miley, of Lexington, Ky., previously co-favorites for the classic.

Among the fallen as the Open moved towards its thirty-six hole final Saturday, were Mrs. Leo Dolan, of Ottawa, provincial champion of Quebec; Ontario's Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, of Toronto, and young Heather Leitch, of Winnipeg, champion of Manitoba. They were forced to the outside with Betty Botterill, of Salt Lake City, and Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh, of Willoughby, O.

Driving and pitching accurately, Miss Mackenzie went one up at the second hole and never let up the pressure. Although no card was turned in, she was close to par all the way.

The outstanding challengers, Miss Kirkham and Miss Miley, each won by the same score as Miss Mackenzie.

Miss Kirkham, an Open winner four years ago when the Dominion won back the title from the United States, eliminated Dorothy Stanforth, of Selkirk, Club, Que. Miss Miley outplayed Mrs. Harbaugh throughout, never relinquishing an advantage taken with a par three on the short third.

PORTLAND GIRL WINS
Advancing with the favorites were five other Montreals, Barbara Northwood, of Winnipeg; Mrs. W. M. Silcock, of Vancouver, and Mrs. C. H. Shuttleworth, of Hamilton, left-to-right Miss Miley as the invading threats were Marion McDougall, of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. T. Rudel and Marjorie Harrison, of New York.

Douglas McIlwraith, of Hamilton, carried Mrs. Silcock to the sixteenth before bowing to the superior all-round game of the Westerner.

In the first flight consolation today, Kay Duff Stuart, of Vancouver, and Alice MacDonald, of Winnipeg, advanced with Kitty Morden and Willo Love, of Toronto, and three Montreals. Kaye Farrell, of Vancouver, was among the defeated in this flight.

Marcia Moss, of Vancouver, won her second-flight match.

SEATTLE, Sept. 15 (P)—The Northwestern Hockey League will be made up of Portland, Spokane, Seattle and Vancouver, representatives of the four cities announced today after a meeting here. Calgary and Edmonton have dropped from the league and Spokane will join the circuit for the first time since 1916-17.

Present at the meeting were Carl C. Quackenbush, of Spokane, Dr. Gordon B. Leitch, of Portland, president of the league; Guy Patrick, of Vancouver; Bobby Rowe, of Portland, and John P. Lyette, of Seattle.

Quackenbush, a Spokane attorney, said that while the playing surface of the Spokane rink will be exposed to the sky, the 3,500 seats will be covered by a roof.

It was indicated either the Edmonton Eskimos would be transferred to Spokane, or that a Portland interest, headed by Danny Edge, who directed amateur hockey in Portland, will take charge in the eastern Washington city.

"If necessary, each club will turn over a player or two to Spokane to see that the game gets off to a flying start there," said Lyette.

WEST HOLME HOTEL IS NEW CLUBROOM FOR TABLE TENNIS

THE TUTTS... By Crawford Young

WELL, OF COURSE

A class in a convent school in Ireland was asked to write an impression of the characters of Henry VIII. and Queen Elizabeth. With regard to the latter, one little girl wrote that "she was successful in her political schemes and popular as a queen. Her character, however, was not good, but what can you expect of a woman who had six mothers?"

Jane Dixon Says:

CAN YOU IMAGINE TWO WOMEN, BOTH LOVING THE SAME MAN, LIVING IN A HOME WITH HIM—ONE HIS BRIDE, THE OTHER HIS SWEETHEART?

If you think you can suit yourself and be happy forever after, listen to this:

Dear Miss Dixon: I realize a woman of forty gets very little sympathy when it comes to a love affair, especially when the man in the case is much younger.

So I'm coming to you for advice, not sympathy.

My husband died several years ago, leaving me very lonely, with twin boys who were mere infants.

A year later I met a young man whose wife had gone away with another man. He, too, was sad and discouraged. With no thought of love, but with pity in my heart, I gave him what solace and encouragement I could.

SHE REFUSED TO MARRY

There came a time when I realized his friendship had grown into love. He seemed to idolize me and insisted that I marry him.

I could not do it. I feared we could not be happy because of the difference in our ages. He has been living in my home for a number of years. We always enjoyed the same sports, amusements, took our vacations together.

Now he has told me that he met a woman for whom he has a tender feeling and he thinks he can make her his wife.

But, Miss Dixon, he wants me to come and live in his home as a mother for the family. He says that in this way he can take care of me for the remainder of my days.

I don't feel I am old enough to be shoved in a corner of a strange home and perhaps trot his children on my knee.

FINDS IT DIFFICULT TO FORGET

I haven't been a mother to him. I've been his sweetheart and pal. It's been very pleasant of me. I'm considered nice-looking and have no trouble about gaining the interest of real men and women.

I don't need his charity. I'm independent. I've even helped him out with money when he needed it.

The thought of all we have been to one another for such a long time and then the threat of a sudden separation has been too much for me. I'm just recovering from a nervous breakdown.

Miss Dixon, it's so easy to remember, so hard to forget. Please give me some new food for thought—Distressed.

A PREPOSTEROUS PROPOSAL

Answer: You do not need new food for thought. What you do need is a spirit of adjustment. You must have known that there would be an end to the easy way, for after all the young man is entitled to live a man's life, with a wife and children and home, or at any rate the opportunity to have them.

You have your children. Why shouldn't he have his? You have your home. Why shouldn't he have his? Since it was not reasonable for you to have them together, both of you must realize that the relation into which you entered was a temporary one, and the time has come to part.

Frankly, I think there is something wrong with the young man's sense of balance. It may be his kindness of heart that inspires him to suggest such an impossible arrangement as your going to live in the home with his new wife. If this is true, if it is kindness, then it is stupidly misplaced.

Can you imagine two women, both of them loving the same man, living in a home with him—one his bride, the other his long-established sweetheart? What a stupendous trouble that would whip up! You'd all be lucky if you escaped a front page tragedy.

If the young man wants to take advantage of his rights to become a husband and a father, let him go in peace.

Say farewell, but do not follow him.

What has happened is as it should be. Your twin sons are now approaching adolescence, and the condition in your home is a menace to their future. You are a comparatively young woman, attractive, friendly. With these assets and two boys to make into men, when you are lonely be assured it is your own fault.

Do You Dream Dreams For Your Children?

MOST parents dream dreams for their children and hope that they will enjoy greater educational advantages than they themselves have had. But such dreams may never come true so far as your children are concerned, unless you have funds available at the right time to educate them for a definite vocation in life.

A Confederation Life Educational Policy is a safe way of making certain that your dreams for your children will come true. If you want to know how this may be done, write now for particulars, or ask one of the Confederation Life Association's representatives about this plan.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Old Granny Fox Loses Her Dignity

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Unc' Billy Possum had passed the word along to Jimmy Skunk, Peter Rabbit and Prickly Porky that old Granny Fox would be on hand at sun-up to see for herself the strange creature which had frightened Reddy Fox at the foot of the hill where Prickly Porky lives. How did Unc' Billy know? Well, he just guessed. He is quite as shrewd and clever as Granny Fox herself, and when he told her that the only time the strange creature everybody was talking about was seen at sun-up, he guessed by the way she sniffed and pretended not to believe it at all that she would visit Prickly Porky's hill the next morning.

"The old lady suspects that there is some trick, and we-unas has got to be very careful," warned Unc' Billy as he and his three friends put their heads together in the early morning. "She is done bound to come snooping around before sun-up," he continued, "and we-unas must be out of sight, all excepting Brer Porky. She'll come just the way she did this afternoon, from back of the hill instead of along the hollow."

Unc' Billy was quite right. Old Granny Fox felt sure that someone was playing tricks, so she didn't wait until jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was out of bed. She was at the top of the hill where Prickly Porky lives a full hour before sun-up, and there she sat down to wait. She couldn't see or hear anything in the least suspicious. You see, Unc' Billy Possum was quite out of sight as he lay just inside the doorway of an old house under the roots of a big stump. Only Prickly Porky was to be seen, and he seemed to be asleep in his favorite tree. Every thing seemed to be just as old Granny Fox had seen it a hundred times before.

At last the Cheerful Little Sunbeams began to drowse through the Green Forest, chasing out the Black Shadows. Reddy the Vireo awoke and at once began to sing, as his way, not even waiting to get a mouthful of breakfast. Prickly

Then he climbed down from the tree he had been sitting in and began to poke around in the dead leaves.

Porky yawned and grunted. Then he climbed down from the tree he had been sitting in, walked slowly to another, started to climb it, changed his mind, and began to poke around in the dead leaves. Old Granny Fox arose and slowly stretched. She glanced at Prickly Porky contemptuously. She had seen him act in this stupid way dozens of times before. Then slowly, watching out sharply on both sides of her without appearing to do so, she walked down the hill to the hollow at the foot.

Now old Granny Fox can be very dignified when she wants to be, and she was now. She didn't hurry the least little bit. She carried her big plumy tail just so. And she didn't once look behind her, for she felt sure that there was nothing out of the way there, and to have done so would have been quite undignified. She had reached the bottom of the hill and was walking along the hollow, smiling to herself to think how easily some people are frightened when her sharp ears caught a sound on the hill behind her. She turned like a flash and then, well for a minute old Granny Fox was too surprised to do anything but stare. There, rolling down the hill straight toward her, was the very thing Reddy had told her about.

At first, Granny decided to stay right where she was and find out what this thing was, but the nearer it got the stranger and more terrible it seemed. It was just a great ball all covered with dried leaves, and yet somehow Granny felt sure that it was alive, although she could see no head or tail or legs. The nearer it got, the stranger and more terrible it seemed. Then Granny forgot her dignity. Yes, sir, she forgot her dignity. In fact, she forgot her dignity. Her big plumy tail, which she carried so proudly, dropped and old Granny Fox ran just as Reddy had run.

RESTORATION OF COMPANY GIVEN

Island Amusement Organization Seeks to Be Put on Roll for Winding-Up Purposes

In Supreme Court chambers yesterday, leave was given to the Island Amusement Company for restoration of registration for the purpose of effecting a winding up of the company. The company is one that was incorporated for the purpose of producing moving pictures. This was a long time ago, and the concern was not a success.

In 1928 the company was struck off the register of companies and nothing resulted until notice was served that there was a sum of about $1,000 to its credit in the Royal Bank. For the purpose of winding up the concern, W. H. Langley, who made application on behalf of those interested yesterday, said there was a restoration of the company to the register for a year's time in 1935. In the meantime, the Attorney-General of the province had claimed the money in the bank. The judgment of Mr. Justice Robertson was against the claim of the Attorney-General and an appeal was now pending in the Court of Appeal.

Mr. Langley, however, said it was now found that the company's incorporation had again lapsed. He asked for a restoration for two years' time to allow for the winding up of the affairs.

Alan Macdonald, for the Attorney-General, did not oppose the application, but asked that the company should not be put in any better position than it was formerly in, which was agreeable to Mr. Langley, and the order was made.

CHAPTER XXIX

Deeds McCune staggered to the nearest wall and leaned weakly against it, pulling mechanically at his shirt collar. He took gulps of air into his tortured lungs, conscious of feeling excessively sick at his stomach. As his vision cleared, he discovered that Rev. Mr. Beckham was in the room. He was standing with his back to that locked door.

Where the devil had he come from?

Something of the sort must have occurred to Sloan Elledge.

"How did you get in here?" he rasped, staring.

"You made it possible by being thoughtful enough to remove the key," the little minister explained mildly. "It almost took me too long as it was. Wait."

Deeds saw his hand flick under the lapel of the linen coat, he wore, and a snub-nosed automatic was pointed steadily at Sloan Elledge.

"Now then, Doctor Ploehne . . . I know you'll be reasonable. As you just reminded McCune, this is a house of mourning. If you will be good enough to stand over there beside the window and keep those active hands of yours where I can see them . . . you, too, John. That's better. Are you all right now, McCune?"

"I . . . I guess so," Deeds stammered. His eyes were riveted on the gun.

"I'm so sorry it happened as it did. I seem to have been just about one jump behind all day," Beckham apologized. "I had a bag of keys there on the dresser . . . a very fair brand, too. I'm sure the boys won't mind if you give yourself a brace. Then perhaps you can give me a little help."

"Who are you?" Sloan grated in a low voice. His eyes were still under his heavy brows.

"Oh, I've several aliases, like yourself," Beckham returned. "I'm from the Narcotics Bureau. I'll show you my credentials later. He dropped his coat. When it emerged, it held two pairs of handcuffs. "All right, McCune. If you feel up to it. The boys will help you by holding their hands out . . . and together. They know how. And no funny moves!"

When the two doctors were manacled to Beckham's satisfaction, he suggested that they might sit on the bed if they cared to.

"I'll get my first assistant to work now," he smiled. "Then we can take it easy." He opened the door a trifle and called softly, "Middleton, my son. Just a moment, will you?"

Young Beckham appeared, eyes and teeth protruding with excitement. "Please step down to the phone very quietly," his father ordered. "It's three-thirty. Say to whoever answers that you want to speak to Mr. Larimore, who is waiting there. Tell Mr. Larry I'm ready for him. All clear."

"Yes, sir."

"Oh, yes . . . Middleton. Wait for the car at the road. Tell Mr. Larry that this morning . . . if he doesn't mind, I'd like to have the boys could get up here to this room without making any noise. I think it would be very nice. You can fix that?"

"Yes, sir."

The boy closed the door and sped softly on his errand.

"I think we won't go into any details here," Beckham said shortly. "These two fellows know what it's all about, and I shall add a little to what they've said. McCune, Layland Cottage's little minister smiling wryly. "Gosh, but it's going to seem good to be myself again."

"I want to thank you, Beckham," said Deeds solemnly. "That man Ploehne certainly has a nasty pair of hands."

For some reason, he did not want to meet Sloan's eyes . . . even though he knew he was safe now. Funny, but he had not to feel a little sorry for the fat one. He looked so surprised and reproachful. And the minister was a Government man! From the Narcotics Bureau. He could guess some of the answers now about the Elledges . . . or whoever they were.

"Say, McCune," the Federal man suggested suddenly, "why don't you go over to your place and stretch out a while? You look awfully tired. I'll see these fellows until my friends come. I want to hang around here and do a little more checking up."

Now that I don't have to use my own powers of entrance," he smiled. "I'll drop in and talk to you later."

"Maybe I will," Deeds decided gratefully. "If you're sure you won't need me." He was walking a trifle unsteadily as he left the room, with out so much as a glance at the two men on the bed.

He was glad to close his own door and lie down on his bed. The reconstruction from his treatment at Elledge's iron hands was making itself felt. His throat ached abominably. What a grip that guy had! Lucky that Beckham showed up when he did . . . must have been hanging on the other side of the door.

A little later there was the sound of steps in the hall. Quiet, but suggesting several persons. No sound of voices, but the same footfall again. The officers leaving with their prisoners? Deeds hoped that preacher wouldn't keep him waiting, long . . . funny, but he couldn't think of Beckham in any other role, even now. Plenty smart, that chap. Plenty smart. What would Joan think of this turn in affairs? He must see her as soon as he found that it was all about.

When Beckham finally entered the room he had an amiable grin on his face, and a saucer of cracked ice in one hand.

"I got this from the doctor," he explained, presenting his offering. "I'll ease your pipes if you'll let it infect in your mouth—I'll talk if you like."

"Oh, thanks! That's good . . ."

Deeds settled back with a smile. "Please tell me what it's all about."

"Okay. I'll sketch in the highlights for you . . . but don't do any broadcasting, please. I'm going to give you a little more of the inside than the public will have handed to it, for the present."

"You've probably guessed that we've been trying to smash a dope ring. A very clever one. The fellow you've known as Sloan-Elledge was what the story writers call the master mind. His name is August Ploehne, at least he started his career that way. He was a doctor once . . . discredited. The fat chap is no relation. His name is Charlie Paxton, and he's brighter than he looks. Maybe you guessed that."

Deeds nodded.

"These two chaps operated through Agents . . . dangerously clever. It's been a slow process, but we've been drawing a loop around them for some time. My job was to keep a check on their wind-up. We had good reason to think that they were closing out and making ready for a final getaway. They wouldn't have gotten far, but the big bosses wanted me to clean up a few clues here on the ground. You forced their hand today . . . incidentally, you've been holding up the game for me."

"Me? How?" Deeds' eyes grew round with surprise.

"I had to take a little time out to check on you and see if you fitted into the picture. I had concluded that you were what you seemed . . . but we can't overlook details," Beckham chuckled. "I'll have to admit that I've frisked your belongings pretty thoroughly, even to the extent of burglarizing a locked bag. That letter from your New York friend had me guessing. Do you know why?"

"Not exactly."

"There's a print on it. The fat man's."

"Oh! Why. I can tell you about that."

"Not necessary now. I've pieced it together for the present. When I found you were working with me I decided to let it go ahead. I've been keeping a pretty close watch on you . . . didn't want anything to happen to you. Ploehne isn't one to gag at trifles. You know that. You came near to giving the authorities a wide hunt for your remains."

"I guess I did. Would you mind telling me your name?"

"Um . . . m, I believe we'd better say it's Beckham. There's no camouflage about the wife and boy. I brought them along for a little vacation and to build up the picture. Middleton is kid enough to get a thrill out of his old man's job, and I can use him to advantage now and then. For his sake, I should explain that I sent him to your room the other day. He exercised his own ingenuity in bringing Miss Kendall into the episode. It wasn't very creditable, but I wanted your reaction at the time."

Deeds shook his head doubtfully.

"I still think you're a preacher . . . or have been."

"Only second-hand. My dad was a preacher. I've inherited some of the earmarks. And that's about the picture for the present."

"No, it isn't, Mr. Beckham. You're leaving out the important part. It's Gaston."

"I know," Beckham stared thoughtfully into space. "There are reasons why I wish we didn't have to go into that, but . . ."

"He was hooked up with these two guys," Deeds said steadily. "I know that. You'll find a note under the lamp there . . . he wrote it this morning. To me. I want you to read it."

Beckham found the envelope and read its contents unhurriedly. He resumed his chair.

"Poor chap," he mused. "That isn't news altogether."

"He was planning to get away for good last night," Deeds explained. "Or early this morning, rather. His car wouldn't work and he asked me to look at it. He thought it had been tampered with. I could see it hit him pretty hard. Did you know anything about that?"

"Oh, yes," Beckham admitted cheerfully. "I was outside that tin garage with my ear to the wall. I was going to stop the lad . . ."

"Only the Elledge boy saved me from trouble. Some more of the fat boy's work. He didn't have any trouble starting the car for you this morning, did he?"

"Hi—say he didn't! You're some wit, Mr. Beckham!"

"Just part of the job," Sloan smiled. "I'll stick to the old names for convenience . . . had a conference with young Gaston last night. I think the old man was growing nervous. He must have put the boy on a spot, and Gene decided on a run-but powder. We'll never know exactly. Rather a gallant gesture at the last."

Deeds stirred uncomfortably. "It isn't easy to say, Mr. Beckham . . . but you seem to know everything. Gaston mentions Miss Kendall . . . you know why?"

"Flushed as he asked the question."

"Your regard for the young lady has been rather . . . apparent," Beckham answered with a slight smile. "Nonsense is going to blame you. I'll be perfectly frank. McCune knew there was some relationship there . . . or had been. I was not able to verify it yet. Sloan did it for me this past hour. I heard what he told John."

"Oh. Then you understand . . . I wish you would tell me more about Gaston. If you don't mind. Just what do you think happened to him?"

"Well . . . to go back a little, Gaston was one of Sloan's agents. We can't mince matters there. We had enough on him to put him away for a long time. You're wondering if he was a dope-addict. I think not. Just how he fell into Sloan's clutches we'll never know. But I suspect it was brought about through financial difficulties. Gaston was a heavy spender and always hard up. I figure Sloan pulled him into the net gradually . . . and that was the end of it. That doctor was no common criminal . . . you'll find that out some day."

"I know that," Deeds raised himself on one elbow. He lowered his. "I want you to tell me something . . . that matters a lot to me."

"Go on. I won't promise an answer."

"Did Gene Gaston . . . take his own life?"
